

DEFINITIONS OF SKILLED LABOR POSITIONS FROM THE 17TH-CENTURY

boate-wright	a person who builds or repairs small boats brick layer	a person skilled in constructing brick buildings brick-maker	a person who makes bricks carpenter	a person who was skilled in building with wood cooper	a person skilled in making his living fishing cutler	a person skilled in making and repairing knives fisherman	a person who makes his living fishing joyner (joiner)	a person skilled in fine carpentry such as building cabinets or furniture leatherdresser	a person who turns animal hides into leather mason	a person who works with stone and brick miller	a person who works in a mill such as a grain mill mill-wright	a person who builds and repairs mills potter	a person who makes pottery out of clay sawyer	a person who is employed to saw wood planks from logs ship-wright	a master craftsman who builds and repairs ships smith	a person who works with and repairs things made of metal such as a blacksmith who works with iron or a tinsmith who works with tin turner	a person who operates a woodworking tool which can shape pieces of wood wheele-wright	a person who makes and repairs wheels for wagons, carts, etc.
woodworder	a person who makes things of wood